

TROUBLE IN APACHE

Apache county is experiencing considerable trouble from her county court system. Citizens of that county complain that stock thieves have been industriously plying their vocation to the detriment of stock growers and that they have been aided and abetted in their nefarious work by one or more prominent citizens of that county. Several arrests have been made and the parties have been bound over to appear before the county court. Judge Rudd, a good natured, honest citizen, who like necessity, "knows no law," occupies the position of County Judge, and has made himself obnoxious to a certain element, who have given him twenty-four hours to leave the county. This the Judge, however, has refused to do, and it is said that his court presents the appearance of an arsenal, men bringing their Winchester and revolvers into court with them. What the ultimate outcome will be remains to be seen, but just at present, the situation as seen by one who recently came from there, is by no means assuring, and the probability is that it will result in bloodshed as a very bitter feeling exists. —Prescott Journal.

DEFIANT SAINTS.

Rumor has it that Brother David Johns, one of the big mormon guns of Utah county State of Zion, declares that he will shoot the first deputy marshal who undertakes to arrest him for polygamy. He would be a good subject for the officers to start in on. Other bluffers have made such threats, but little men, clothed with the authority of the law, have run them in without bloodshed.

The spirit of defiance in Provo is said to have its origin in Bishop Smoot, who tells the brethren that now is the time for the cowards to run, but as for himself there is no retreat, no dodging nor hiding.

This is rough on the prophets and smaller cowards, such as J. C. Graham, the proprietor of brother Smoot's organ, and if he is not careful he will be "churched" for speaking against the priesthood. —Salt Lake Tribune.

An Indiana farmer, who had brought to New York city five Jersey cows, made an innovation upon the usual practice at auction sales by calling for a pail, and declaring aloud before the assembled purchasers his intention of milking the animals, to show of what grade they were. As the bids kept coming he kept milking, and soon got from one of the cows two pails. The novelty did not please the owners whose stock was to be offered, but in the estimation of experts it caused the farmer to obtain at least a hundred dollars more for each cow than he otherwise would. The average price being four hundred dollars a head. —Ex.

Probably for the first time in the history of the penitentiary, a prisoner was brought here this week, was assigned a room at the S. P. hotel, went to bed, got up in the morning took his breakfast and then patiently waited until his keeper went through the same programme. About nine o'clock they both started out and the prisoner formally took up his residence at the Hotel d'Ingalls. The prisoner was a Mormon, who doubtless longed for the title of martyr so cheaply purchased with a few days' confinement, and hence would make no attempt at escape. —Yuma Republican.

Some stock raisers are in the habit of branding calves that belong to their friends, particularly if the friends are not about, at least we infer so from a conversation that took place in an Austin saloon. Said No. 1:

"I heard old Roundmup, on Spring Branch, will brand in the neighborhood of 2000 calves this year."

"I don't know how many he'll brand, he'll brand pretty much all there are in the neighborhood, if he ain't watched." —Texas Siftings.
